Dear Parents and Carers,

I was hoping to write to you this week with some clarity on the planned partial re-opening of schools from the Prime Minister's announcement on Sunday. However, with the subsequent announcement on Monday and then publication of documents which have been further updated, the position remains unclear.

I am in regular contact with Merton and the other local Headteachers; we are all waiting for additional guidance to be published before we can make any firm plans. As you will know from various media and news items, the teaching and support staff unions have been in further consultation with DfE and are meeting again today.

I would like to thank you for your continued support and effort at home helping your son study. I hope you are all keeping safe and staying healthy and realise how difficult this lockdown period has been for many of our families. Your son's safety and wellbeing will always be a key priority, so please do get in touch if you have any concerns: SafeGuarding@rutlish.merton.sch.uk

If you have any queries about work set by teachers, please put the subject and year group in the title and send the email administration@rutlish.merton.sch.uk so it can be directed to the relevant members of staff.

Yours sincerely,

Ms L Howarth
Headteacher

Cc: all staff, all governors.
